AN AGED SWAIN GETS OUT OF JAIL.

The Usual Grind of Various Small or Miner Court Matters.

Wife murderer Smith's admissions and conversations subsequent to the uxoricide were used against him with telling effect yesterday. Mrs. Farrell sues the P. R. R. and West Penn Railroad for $30,000 for in-

The Smith murder trial was continued before Judge White in Criminal Court yesterday, W. H. Bown, the gunsmith, examined the revolwer used by Smith, and stated that it was $2 caliber and that the bullet taken from demeased's brain fitted it.

J. P. Willison, an undertaker, testified to going to the Smith house on the morning of the tragedy, and that Smith was sitting on the edge of the bed, and told him that he, Smith, had shot his wife.

Mrs. Ada Bagley, testified to going upstairs in the morning when the defendant called for an officer, and seeing Mrs. Smith lying in the bed dead.

Joseph Bagley was called and corroborated the testimony of his wife, also that the defend-ant showed him two letters he had found, and anuttered threats against his wife.

At the afternoon session Officer Andy Terry was placed on the stand and testified to the arrest of Smith, also to a conversation had with him in the patrol wagon, in which the prisoner stated that he killed his wife because of some letters he had found. When the witness entered the room Mrs. Smith was lying on her back with her right cheek resting on her hand. anuttered threats against his wife.

MR. MADISON MIXED.

Hugh Madison, of the Eleventh ward patrol wagon, corroborated the former witness, but managed to get himself hopelessly mixed. He at first testified that he asked the prisoner what he shot his wife for, and on cross-examination denied asking such a question. Witness also got mixed up as to the time the patrol wagon went to the house. Mrs. Louisa Turner, who lived in the house at the time of the tragedy, was by far the best witness that was placed on the stand. She told a clear-cut story that was very damaging to the prisoner and could not be shaken in the lenst. The witness stated that she was in the yard and heard a cry that Smith had killed his wife. She went unstants and waiked into the road. She went upstairs and walked into the room and saw both husband and wife in bed. The prisoner turned his head and looked at her, but said nothing. There was no one upstairs when she got there. She then started down the stairs and creed. "My God, the dirty black nigger has killed her."

Bulled her."

During last April the witness stated that one night Smith and his wife had been out at the home of his mother-in-law, and he returned home about 10:80 and his wife did not come home until 12 o'clock. He raised a row with Mrs. Smith and she screamed. The witness ran to the door and saw the defendant holding his wife arainst the wall clocking her, with his his wife against the wall choking her with his left hand, while in his right hand, he held a revolver and he said, "D— you, I will kill you." At another time the prisoner pulled his revolver on his wife on Clark street and threatened to blow her brains out.

HANDY WITH THE BEVOLVER. Mrs. Emaline Harris once heard the defendunt fussing with his wife and she refused to return to the room until he put the revolver away, and the wife said that he always drew way, and the wife sain that he always drew the revolver on her when they were fussing.

Mrs. Lizzie Jones, Mrs. Mary E. Gibson and Mrs. Mary Wedlock live in the neighborhood of where the tragedy occurred and testified to hearing the shots on the night of the murder, but could not tell where they came from.
Mrs. Duvall, wife of the minister who married Mr. and Mrs. Smith, testified that they lived with her for a short time, that she heard the prisoner threaten to kill his wife.
Mrs. Hannah Bundy, a sister of the deceased. ner having made nume ous threats against his wife and at one time ed three shots after her. Detective Fitzgerald testified to a conversa tion with the prisoner while on the way to jall, and he said the reason he killed his wife was because of some letters he found.

A STATION HOUSE GIVE-AWAY. special officer Robert Robinson testified to a versation with the prisoner in the Central station when the prisoner stated that he got tired fussing with his wife, and that he would end the thing. He said that they had been Tussing for two hours on the night of the nur-der, and that when she went to sleep he got up, and, securing the revolver, shot her and then himself. His wife did not wake up after she

The Commonwealth at this point rested, and Mr. Marron opened for the defense. He said that there was no question but what Mrs. Smith came to her death at the hands of her Smith came to her death at the hands of her husband, but the question is whether the man is of sound mental capacity.

Mr. Marron stated that the defense would prove that Mrs. Smith had been unfaithful to her husband, and that he brooded over this, and although not a drinking man, on the day preceding the murder he filled up with liquor so that after 8 o'clock that night he did not know what he was doing. Mr. Marron stated that it was a peculiar fact that the defendant had shot himself three times, his wife once, and, alself three times, his wife once, and, al though the revolver only contained five chabers, two bullets still remained in it when it was found. This he looked on as something of a mystery.

When Mr. Marron concluded his opening, court adjourned until this morning.

A BREACH OF PROMISE CASE. The Aged Swain Released From Jall Pending Supreme Court Decision. Joseph Dierstein, the aged lover of Mrs. Mary Schubkagel, and the defendant in the suit brought by her for damages for breach of promise of marriage, was released from fail yesterday after spending a number of weeks in The case is now pending the decision of the Supreme Court, having been argued before it at the recent sitting here. Yesterday Messra. Whiteself & Sons, Dierstein's attorneys, went before Judge Ewing and filed a petition for his release. They stated that he was insolvent, and further presented a certificate from the jall physician to the effect that Dierstein was attice with framework.

the jail physician to the effect that Dierstein was alling with rheumatism, asthma, etc., and would hardly live until January, when it is expected that the case will be decided. A bond in the sum of $1,000 was given for his appearance in January to receive the judgment of the Supreme Cour., and Mrs. Schubkagol's attorneys consenting Dierstein was ordered released.

The judgment given against Dierstein in the lower court was for $600, and he was committed to jail in default of a bond to secure the judgment pending the action of the Supreme Court. He einded the Sheriff for several months before he was finally captured.

PLATE GLASS CO. DISSENSIONS. An Intersecine Pinnacial Wrangle Comes Up for Adjudication. In the United States Circuit Court yesterday an argument was heard in the case of Samuel F. Barr against the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company, J. B. Ford and others. The argumeats were on demurrers to the bill fited by Mr. Barr. Sol Schoyer, Esq., represented Barr, and D. T. Watson and William Scott ap-

Harr, and D. T. Watson and William Scott ap-peared for the defendants.

The defendants held that, admitting the facts alleged, Barr could not obtain the relief asked for trom the courts, because he had not shown that he could not obtain it within the corporation. Attorney Schoyer maintained that such application would be housensical, as there was no possibility of the relief desired being granted there. The Court reserved its decision.

Mrs. Farrell Sucs the P. R. R. and West Penn for Injuries and Loss of Her Son. Mrs. Catherine Farrell yesterday entered two suits against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, operating the West Penn Rathroad. The suits are for damages for the death of her child and for injuries to herself received in the bankment.

The story told by Mrs. Farrell in her statement of the case is a sad one. She is 28 years old and had buried her husband but three weeks before the accident. When the wreck occurred her 5-year-old child was disemboweled and instantly killed before her eyes. She had four ribs broken, her spine injured and received pormanent internal injuries. In addition her unborn child was killed. She claims 25 000 for her own injuries and 85 000 for the $25,000 for her own injuries and $5,000 for the death of her child.

The Followers of Redriquez Show Their Opponents How to Electioneer NEW YORK, November 19 .- Advices from San Jose, just received, dated Novem-

Beginning on Sunday, the first of the three days, every place where drinks could be obtained was closed, according to an order previously issued by the Chief of Police. There was absolutely no drinking, and therefore no rowdyism. At first it looked as though it would be very close. Then the Rodriquistas began to gain rapidly. They worked like bees. They ongregated on street corners and buttonholed every one that passed. The leaders holed every one that passed. The leaders hurried to and fro, giving streamous orders:

"Ask every one you see if he has voted. Get him to go at once." In this way the votes ran up rapidly, while the more dignified Esquivelistas relied upon earlier efforts.

If Rodriques comes into power it is hard to say what difference will be felt. It is predicted by some that the Jesuits will return the property of the say that the say the say that the say the say the say that the say that the say that the say that the say the and have their own way. Others say that Costa Rica will take a nap for a few years.

"Don Jose," they say, shrugging their shoulders and smiling vaguely, "is like a good, old-fashioned book that has been taken down from an unused shelf. Blow the dust off him, and you will find him sound and staid, but a little slow, perhaps." "It is," say others, "a great blow to the Bishop of Costa Rica, who saw in Don Ascension Esquivel qualities fitting him pre-eminently for the Presidency." There are 540 Presidental electors for all the country. The Rodriquistas claim to have 100 more of these than the Esquivelistas. This is said to be the first really popular election Costa Rica has ever had.

Cuticura Succeeds Having been a sufferer for two years and a hair from a disease caused by a bruise on the log, and having been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES when all other methods and remedies failed, I deem it my duty to recommend them. I visited Hot Springs to no avail, and tried several doctors without success, and at last our principal druggist, Mr. John P. Finlay (to whom I shall ever feel grateful), spoke to me about CUTICURA, and I consented to give them a trial, with the result that I am perfectly cured. There is now no sore about me. I think I can show the largest surface where my autlerings sprang from of any one in the State. The CUTICURA REMEDIES are the best blood and skin cures manufactured. I refer to druggist John P.
